THE SANGAMO JOURNAL

For President—ZACHARY TAYLOR.

SPRINGFIELD:

Thursday Morning, July 8, 1847.

Welcome to the Volunteers.

The programme of the proceedings to the 5th, was well carried out, under the judicious direction of the Chief Marshal of the Day, V. Hickox, Esq. and the Committee of Arrangements. The crowd was enormous—and it was supposed when the procession appeared on the ground, that there must have been from three to five thousand persons present. A considerable number of the "Veteran Volunteers" joined in the procession, and we noticed that one of the number, Mr. Thomas Wilkinson, carried in his hand the flag, taken by him in the battle of Cerro Gordo. Capt. Prince's Company of Infantry (the "Hardin Boys") and the Lincoln Guards, under Capt. Stuart, which were present, are handsome companies and their military performance were quite creditable to them. The Declaration of Independence was read by Jason Hackett, Esq. and the Oration, decidedly an excellent effort, was pronounced by W. L. Patterson, Esq. Col. Baker being called upon, addressed the assembly in a few remarks of his usual acceptable manner. The rough service of war has not lessened the power with which he was wont to use the strong listening multitude. The Dinner was abundant, and of the substantials, "more than enough." The procession to Grove Grove was closed at an early hour;—not by returning from thence to their homes in the country, and there enjoying the day—but in the evening a Concert was given by Mr. Bristow and her daughters to the "Returned Volunteers" and the Military, at the Representatives' Hall, at which it was estimated some five 800 persons were present—a compliment not flattering as it was deserved to the attending performers. At the close of the Concert, the citizens in the Hall seemed to be endowed with harmonious powers—a large portion of the Hall was devoid of them, and under the influence of music, there was an exhibition, and but few citizens present, of "the poetry of motion," by the many ladies and gentlemen present. This performance, we judged, from the merry smiles of the happy faces, was enjoyed with an unusual zest—and the only regret expressed was, that it had been necessary to celebrate the return of the glorious natal day of our country on Saturday. Under the influence of kind feeling, we promised that this should not happen in case for five years to come. We should not forget here to mention the brilliant display of fire works in the evening, of which we have been informed, by some of our German citizens, who excelled [illegible] on the approach of the Celebration—thanks to them!

The proceedings of the Convention were nearly strung as follows:—At the appointed time, that we trust our friends will excuse us for this brief notice of the doings on the 5th. We will not attempt, however, under existing circumstances, that we did not wish to be engaged by a State officer, and then only on a given amount in proportion to capital paid in. We would not be willing that the Bank should be abused. A general law of the legislature, embodying such a system, would encourage the formation of Banks, and would not be liable to seduce the establishment of mere banks—then would pay a fair profit, and be useful to the community. In such case, if a bank should refuse to pay specie for its notes, or otherwise violate the law, the State could at once pull its corporate rights from us.

But we are not wedded to this system. We prefer it;—and next to it, that the question should be left open to the Committee. The subject of inviting capital into our State, and of Currency, are not now a party matter—As we have said before, if there is a matter of progressive movement, among the people on these subjects, and the interest now manifested in them is evidence of its existence.

We feel no hesitation in saying, that any system of Banking to be adopted by the Convention which will have the effect to prevent the establishment of Banks in the State of Illinois, will be a direct prohibition, or by some indirect mode—a virtual one to the Constitution before the people. Such a prohibition, we believe, would not be adopted—for to be accessible to them, we must evidently hope that this subject will be so disposed of as to meet their wishes.

☞Friday last was devoted in St. Louis to the celebration of the 4th, by the Independence Guards, under Capt. Stuart, which were present, and he deliberate expression of the people upon this question, when presented in their full strength, prepared by private men, holding the same opinion as myself on that point? They would feel afraid that they are afraid of public opinion, or appeared to gainsay the popular opinion in his manner. Who knows? If public opinion is but the opinion of a majority, to be understood as saying that I am giving the opinion of every one? Indeed, I have no doubt some have are for extra or whatever, but I speak of what I am prepared and connected in the opinion of much the largest part of them; and believe me, that is the case, as there is expressing them here, and I assure you that I am not alone in this opinion. Economy are entirely required special banking as to the amount of banker's restriction which I have before alluded to, and which are looked for by the people of the country, and which I will now read.

Resolved, That the Executive and Banks and Corporations be instructed to request an amendment to the Constitution, by submission an article of amendment to the Constitution, to the Constitution, in substance as follows, (after striking and the whole section, must read:)

"Sec. 21. There shall be no banks or moneyed institutions in this State, nor shall the State, nor any municipal Assembly providing therefore—which shall be submitted to the people at a general election, and the assumption, or otherwise—which shall be submitted to a direct vote of the people, and approved by the majority of the votes given at such general election. Nor shall the General Assembly have any power, or special act conferring corporate franchises, or any moneyed institution, without expressly providing, as such law shall be submitted to the people.

"Sec. 22. The stockholders shall be liable in their individual capacity, for all the debts of any bank, company or corporation, to the amount of three times the proportion of their stock therein, which they shall, before any issues, pledge to the State, or to such officers as may be designated by law, as ample security for the redemption of all their paper issued or put in circulation.

"Sec. 23. All the capital stock shall be first paid in, in specie, before any such bank shall issue paper.

"Sec. 24. No act shall be passed by the General Assembly, authorizing or legalizing any suspension of specie payment.

"Sec. 25. Directors shall be entitled to preference of payment before all other creditors.

"Sec. 26. Not more than three dollars for one shall be issued, nor any bills of a less denomination than $10.

"Sec. 27. Any embezzlement of the funds of the bank shall be deemed felony, and punishable as such.

"Sec. 28. The General Assembly shall not amend any thing that shall provide by law for the punishment of any person who may be in anywise connected with the management of the affairs of any bank, company or corporation, either to individuals or to the public.

"Sec. 29. Any violation of the terms of any charter of such bank, or charter, shall be a forfeiture of the same, and the General Assembly shall pass general laws to enable any person or persons to institute suits for the same, and before any court of competent jurisdiction, in such manner as shall be provided by law."

Whether these restrictions are the best which can be made, I am not prepared to say, but I am prepared to say that they are necessary. I am hardly prepared to say that they are the best which can be made, but I am prepared to say that they are the best which can be made, and I am prepared to say that they are the best which can be made, and I am prepared to say that they are the best which can be made, and
